GETTING MORE FROM THE GAMES

Creating a legacy for life

www.walthamforest.gov.uk/2012games

GETTING MORE

As the 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games get closer, Waltham Forest Council is leading the effort to make the most of the unique opportunities that come with being a host borough.

We will turn these opportunities into real, lasting benefits for our community, creating a legacy for life for the people who live, work and visit here.

We will make sure we are Getting more from the Games by

- Investing in our streets
- Increasing Olympic Park access
- Improving business and skills
- Inspiring our community

Our work has already started, and you will see regular updates on our progress over the coming months, as well as information on how to get involved.

This is an exciting time for Waltham Forest and we want the whole community to feel the benefits of being an Olympic host borough.

Dear resident,

The Games will bring a new wave of opportunity, prosperity, inspiration and community spirit to Waltham Forest, like nothing we have seen before. Our focus is on creating long-lasting and visible benefits for the local area and local people.

With less than a week to go, Vancouver is busily preparing for the world's focus as the 2010 Olympic Winter Games get underway. This is an exciting reminder for Waltham Forest that the next time the Olympic torch is lit, the Games will be happening right here on our doorstep.

I hope each and every one of you helps us capture the spirit of the Games by playing your part in making them a success, and supporting us while we prepare for our turn in the spotlight.

It's an exciting time for Waltham Forest, and we're making sure everyone who lives here is Getting more from the Games.

Yours faithfully

Chris Robbins

Waltham Forest lobbies for bobbies

7,100 signature petition calling for more police presented to Metropolitan Police Authority

Senior police have pledged to make Waltham Forest safer after a delegation of councillors and residents presented the Metropolitan Police Authority (MPA) with a petition demanding more police for the borough.

Waltham Forest Council leader, Cllr Chris Robbins, presented the document on Thursday 28 January with noisy support from a delegation of 40 residents, councillors and schoolchildren from Chingford Hall Primary School, who travelled to City Hall by double decker bus.

Senior police officers responded by promising to visit the borough to investigate crime rates, and said extra officers could be deployed to bring crime down.

Assistant Commissioner for Territorial Policing, Ian McPherson, said: "Waltham Forest's crime is going up and we have to do something about it, that's our job. We have to do something to make Waltham Forest safer."

The event was organised to highlight the Council's "We're Calling For Back Up" campaign which was launched in August last year to address the shortfall in police numbers in this borough.

The Council would like to say a big 'thank you' to the people who attended on the day and to everyone who has signed the petition so far.

Waltham Forest's crime is going up and we have to do something about it, that's our job.

Kelly Eastmond-Jeffrey, secretary of Leyton Community Action, who attended the event said: "The meeting went very well, I just hope we get the right outcome for Waltham Forest.

"The community needs familiar faces in the police force so they can build up good relations and feel they can confide in officers and report crime in their area."

In 2008/09 Waltham Forest had the highest rate of serious crime in London but has relatively low numbers of police officers. Hackney has a virtually identical rate of serious crime but 195 more police officers than Waltham Forest.

In my opinion

Sarah Humphreys

Chair of the East London Out Project (ELOP)

Across London there has been an increase of reported homophobic incidents. Some attacks have been so vicious they've resulted in death or the need for life-long care and support for some victims. Sadly, east London has also seen a rise in anti-gay hate crimes, this borough included.

The media coverage I've seen has examined several potential reasons for this rise. Some see it as an increased confidence in reporting homophobic hate-crime to the police and that the problem hasn't got any worse. This, however, denies the true extent of homophobic attacks. In reality the reported incidences represent only a fraction of those that actually take place.

Another opinion makes a link between the attacks and the economic disadvantage and social isolation experienced by some people, whereas the third view is that the rise in attacks relates to an increase in hostility towards gay people from specific faith communities.

Homophobia is wrong and, like other forms of discrimination, it should not be tolerated.

However, not one of these explanations sits particularly well with me – instead they feel rather like excuses. Anti-gay hate-crime is on the rise because of homophobia. Giving any other reason for this ignores the role that homophobia – the irrational hatred of gay people – plays in these increased instances of violence.

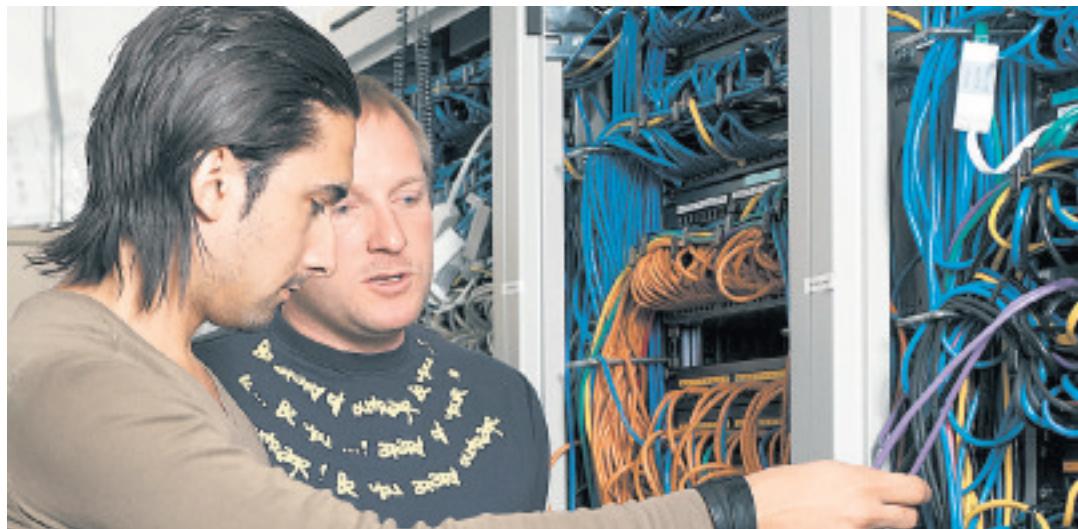

It also pigeonholes entire communities and takes no account of the diverse nature of these communities themselves. Many people of all faiths have been outraged by these attacks.

The bottom line is that homophobia is wrong and, like other forms of discrimination, it should not be tolerated. If society is serious about stamping out discrimination directed at gay people, we need to learn from the lessons of how we have begun to tackle other forms of discrimination and do the same around homophobia. This includes celebrating the diversity of the community, including the contributions of the gay community, having a truly inclusive approach to community cohesion and ensuring our schools take a zero tolerance approach to all forms of homophobia.

If you are interested in making a difference and would like to get involved in fighting homophobia then I can be contacted on chair@elop.org

Waltham Forest is looking for apprentices in a variety of fields, from ICT to finance

You're hired - Council seeks new apprentices

- Help at hand for 16-18 year olds with Waltham Forest's apprenticeship scheme
- Earn while you learn and gain valuable new skills for the workplace

While the recession might officially be 'over' that doesn't mean times aren't tough and, if you've had an eye on the news, you'll know that young people are amongst those who've been hardest hit by the economic downturn.

To help give local young people a boost, Waltham Forest Council's apprenticeship scheme is once again in full swing, with 16-18 year olds being offered the chance to get in touch regarding a potential Council apprenticeship.

Since starting the scheme in 2006 the Council has taken on 80 apprentices, 24 of whom have been taken on permanently after their apprenticeship finished. This year the Council is hoping to take on 30 new apprentices in areas such as finance, legal services, ICT and the Council's 2012 team.

Cllr John Macklin, Waltham Forest's Cabinet Member for Finance and Resources, said: "Making sure our residents are equipped with the skills they need to compete in the workplace and driving down unemployment are two big priorities for the Council and taking on apprenticeships shows that we're putting our money where our mouth is as an organisation."

More info

Anyone aged 16-18 and interested in the scheme should contact CLaSS on wbl@walthamforest.gov.uk or 020 8520 9430. Any businesses looking to take on an apprentice can visit www.apprenticeships.org.uk

GETTING MORE FROM THE GAMES Olympics Minister praises borough's 2012 ambition

- Waltham Forest taking an 'important lead' in achieving improvements
- Pride in the borough is 'infectious' says Cabinet Minister

Tessa Jowell meets with the borough's Olympic Ambassadors

Tessa Jowell, the Government's Minister for Olympics, praised Waltham Forest's ambition to use the 2012 Games to kick-start improvements in the borough, when she visited the William Morris Gallery recently.

Speaking at the launch of the Council's new culture strategy, the Secretary of State, said: "There's something very uplifting about the pride that Waltham Forest have in their borough and I think it's infectious in the wider Olympic family.

"Coming here and seeing the other bits of Waltham Forest as I know them, it's very easy to understand why. Because what is absolutely the case is that all London's growth over the next ten to 15 years is going to be here, it is going to be east.

"This is the part of London that will grow; this is the part of London that can become the knowledge centre for London and this is the part of London that will drive the engine of growth - in part on the strength of the Olympics but in greater part on the basis of the ambition that the boroughs have for their community. That is where Waltham Forest sets such a very important lead."

The comments made by

Ms Jowell, who along with Cllrs Chris Robbins and Geraldine Reardon discussed the 2012 Games with the borough's Olympic Ambassadors, follow recent announcements made by Waltham Forest Council to invest in the borough, including the announcement of a £6m training facility in Leytonstone, and a pledge of £5m to be spent on improving streets and paving across Leyton.

Haiti fundraisers rise to challenge

Pupils and staff at Norlington School for Boys in Leyton have raised £480 for the disaster fund for survivors of the Haiti earthquake. A non uniform day at the specialist maths and computing school saw pupils donate a pound each for the Disasters Emergency Committee (DEC) Haiti Earthquake Appeal.

Deputy Headteacher Guy Persaud said: "The boys don't need much of a reason to wear their own clothes but in this instance they were keen to do so to help out those who have suffered and lost their homes and families in the quake. We are proud that most pupils contributed at least £1 towards the cause."

A group of local families organised a fundraising walk around Leytonstone to collect money for Haiti. A dozen families took the leisurely stroll around the town centre raising £600 for the appeal.

Staff at NHS Waltham Forest also found time to hold a baking and fruit day at their offices in Leytonstone, which raised £301 for the survivors. Well done to everyone across our compassionate borough who donated money to this cause.

The DEC brings together leading aid charities such as the British Red Cross, Save the Children, Oxfam and Action Aid and donations can still be made directly to them by phoning 0370 60 60 900.

WFM helps solve TV murder

wfm, the predecessor to Waltham Forest News, proved its worth as a community newspaper when it helped solve a mysterious death on TV's 'Silent Witness' recently. The then monthly newspaper carried an appeal for anyone who knew the identity of a dead woman to come forward. It was then used again to run the front page story of the successful capture of the suspect. The BBC contacted wfm back in 2008 asking to use the publication in the show as the borough's largest circulation paper. Always happy to do our bit!

Sleeping Alice and the Beast

The William Morris Gallery is hosting a brand new multimedia exhibition with works that are a direct response to the gallery's collection.

Artists Louise Clarke, Dominique Golden and Zoe Hodgson have been exhibiting together for 10 years, after they met at The Royal College of Art.

Their work fluctuates between fine art and craft based art works and, like Morris, is influenced by nature and fairytale romanticism.

The exhibition runs until Sunday 7 March. The William Morris Gallery is open from 10am-5pm Wednesday to Sunday and admission is free.

The band are looking forward to their gig at Walthamstow Assembly Hall (below)

New Beautiful South

- Popular band to play Walthamstow Assembly Hall on 13 February
- Set will include classic Beautiful South songs and new material

Fans of British pop institution The Beautiful South will be delighted to hear that the band has reformed and is set to perform at Walthamstow Assembly Hall on Saturday 13 February.

The group broke up in 2007 claiming the split was due to "musical similarities." Now former members Dave Hemingway, Alison Wheeler and Dave Stead, have reformed under the name, New Beautiful South.

As well as dipping into the Beautiful South songbook, which includes classic hits 'A Little Time', 'Don't Marry Her' and 'Perfect 10', the band will perform brand new material.

Waltham Forest News spoke to singer Dave Hemingway ahead of the concert.

Dave said: "Walthamstow is a place we've never played before, so we're looking forward to coming to east London and putting on a good show. I've heard the Assembly Hall has good acoustics, which is always a positive – some people might say we need them!"

"In a way though, we're nervous playing more intimate venues. They can be really nerve-wracking because the crowd is so close. Hopefully everyone will give us a warm welcome."

"We're hoping to have a local band as our support act for the gig too. It's always nice to give new bands an opportunity to play to a slightly bigger crowd and they will bring their own fans and supporters with them too, which of course is good for the whole gig."

"The gigs have gone well so far and we've had a chance to play some nice theatre venues, so I'm really looking forward to coming to Walthamstow and playing at the Assembly Hall."

Fact file

- Paul Heaton and Dave Hemingway, both former members of the Hull band The Housemartins, formed The Beautiful South at the end of the 1980s

- The group sold over 15 million records worldwide during their 19-year career
- 'Carry On Up The Charts' – the group's first compilation album, released in 1994, became one of the fastest selling albums in UK history and went platinum five times over

- In January 2009 it was announced that former members Dave Hemingway, Dave Stead and Alison Wheeler would reform under the name New Beautiful South.

Getting more for Leyton

- Extra £2.25m for Olympic improvements
- Money to be spent on highways and pedestrian access

Major improvements to Leyton High Road and the surrounding area have come one step closer to being realised, thanks to a partnership programme with Design for London.

The design organisation, which is a part of the London

Development Agency, worked with each of the five Olympic host boroughs to bid for millions of pounds of funding to improve the environment around the Olympic Park before the 2012 Games and connect local communities to the Park afterwards. The bid was successful and a cash boost of £2.25m was preliminarily agreed by the LDA in late January, so that Waltham Forest Council and Design for London can now start finalising their improvement plans.

The grant has been divided into two sections, with £1.25m to be spent on improving Leyton High Road, including better lighting, safer paving and improved roads. Further money will also be spent on improving Drapers Playing Fields.

The remaining £1m will be spent on improving the Ruckholt Road bridge and developing better pedestrian and cycle access through Leyton Mills.

The announcement is the latest boost to the borough's 'Getting more from the Games' campaign (see this issue's cover-wrap around) which will see major investment in skills, businesses and the environment before and after the Games.

More info

The Council is working to make sure you are 'Getting more from the Games'. Look out for developments as they happen in future editions of Waltham Forest News or online at www.walthamforest.gov.uk

In brief

Have your say on improvements

Alongside the plans being developed with Design for London (see main story) there are already significant improvements being planned to the highway, footway and public spaces along Cann Hall Road and Crownfield Road, Leyton, which will improve the quality, character and distinctiveness of the area.

The proposed improvements include better lighting, better signposts and more greenery and you can have your say on the plans, to make sure you are Getting more from the Games.

Carbon Trust offers green training

The Carbon Trust has launched an online training kit designed to help smaller businesses and organisations find greener ways of doing things. The 'Cut Carbon, Cut Costs' kit gives an introduction to key energy efficiency topics and is available on video and as an interactive calculator.

Over the course of six modules, users can build an action plan giving estimated costs and carbon savings in their workplace. The topics covered are: electricity out-of-hours, energy management, heating, lighting, office and IT equipment, and compressed air.

• More information on the online training tool can be found on the website at www.carbontrust.co.uk

Porky and best

As anyone with a soft spot for the fluffier things in life will know, one of the many joys of spring is the profusion of newborn animals to be seen. If you're not quite content with TV's 'Countryfile', there's a chance to get a farmyard fix courtesy of Lee Valley Park Farms, which re-opens on Saturday 13 February. Families can meet a variety of the farm's inhabitants, which include pigs, goats, mice and even a bearded dragon, and for those of you who want an even better understanding of how a farm works you can, on weekends and school holidays, take a tractor ride down to the working dairy farm.

Help shape the borough's future

Waltham Forest residents are being asked for their views on how the borough should develop and change over the next 15 years. Having started work on a series of planning documents called the Local Development Framework (LDF) the Council's attention has now turned to the LDF Core Strategy, which effectively sets the course for everything to follow. The Core Strategy will deal with the big strategic planning issues and will focus on key issues such as jobs, housing, town centres, health, education, transport, built and natural heritage and climate change. If you're interested in getting involved you've got until 19 February to do so – what are you waiting for?

• For more information visit www.walthamforest.gov.uk/ldf or call the Spatial Planning Team on 020 8496 3000.

Groundbreaking CCTV initiative launched

- Boost for motorists as Council highlights CCTV enforcement spots
- New scheme aims to cut accidents and promote responsible driving

A new scheme outlining where CCTV traffic enforcement vehicles will be placed has been launched.

The initiative, believed to be the first of its kind in the country, aims to improve road safety and reduce the number of accidents on the borough's streets while avoiding the need to issue motorists with fixed penalty notices.

People will be able to log on to the Council's website and find out when and where CCTV enforcement vehicles will be situated.

The CCTV cars are responsible for spotting moving traffic violations, such as stopping in box junctions, driving in bus lanes and making banned turns. They are also used for parking enforcement purposes.

Waltham Forest Council's

Cabinet Member for Environment, Cllr Bob Belam, said: "The main aim of our traffic enforcement team is to improve safety for all of Waltham Forest's roads users. It is not about making money at the expense of motorists.

"We are putting our money where our mouth is and telling motorists where our CCTV vehicles will be watching. We hope this will encourage people to drive more carefully, especially at the locations where we issue most of our fixed penalty notices, and help us to improve traffic flow and reduce accidents."

The locations of the CCTV vehicles can be found by logging on to www.walthamforest.gov.uk/transport

Justify your love

- Come to Walthamstow on 13 February for all the fun of the fair
- Launch of Love Your Borough awards to recognise and reward those who've done Waltham Forest proud

Come along to be entertained on Saturday

Love is definitely in the air next weekend, and while you might be looking to break the bank on flowers, a posh frock or a slap-up meal for Valentine's Day itself, you can enjoy some free treats the day before as we show

Waltham Forest some love.

The event, which will run from 1pm-5pm on the former Arcade site (at the junction of Hoe Street and Walthamstow High Street) on Saturday 13 February, represents the launch of the first ever Love Your Borough awards.

The awards aim to recognise and reward the individuals, businesses, community groups, charities and voluntary organisations who've done their bit to make Waltham Forest a better place to live, work and go to school. There'll be ten categories to choose from and prizes galore for the folks who've rolled up their sleeves to help make the borough a cleaner, greener, safer or nicer place to live – so turn up on the day or watch this space for more details.

As well as launching the Love Your Borough awards there'll be plenty of free family-friendly activities to enjoy, including a Kylie tribute act, jugglers, human statues, fire shows and the ever-popular vintage carousel, along with plenty more besides.

As well as enjoying all the fun of the fair, an exhibition featuring the winners of last year's Love Your Borough photo competition will also be unveiled for the first time and you can also grab some info on how to show Mother Earth herself a little bit of love at our '10:10' stall which offers advice on helping to reduce Waltham Forest's Carbon footprint.

Dirty criminals caught

Criminals polluting the environment in Waltham Forest have been forced to fork out more than £30,000 as punishment for their crimes. The Council's 'Wiping Out Enviro-Crime' campaign successfully launched a string of initiatives designed to stamp out offences such as fly tipping, graffiti, littering and dog fouling since its start on 29 January last year.

Since then 42 people have been prosecuted and ordered to pay out £13,760 in fines and £16,272 in costs.

10:10 - We're a part of it, and you should be too

At the end of 2009 Waltham Forest Council joined thousands of individuals and organisations from across the country to unite behind one simple idea: a ten per cent cut in carbon emissions during 2010. It's called 10:10, and we want you to be a part of it.

Cutting ten per cent in one year is a bold target, but for most of us it's an achievable one, and is in line with what scientists say we need right now. By signing up to 10:10 we're not just promising to reduce our own emissions – we're becoming part of a national drive to hit this ambitious goal in every sector of society.

Come along to the Love your borough event on Saturday 13 February 1pm-5pm on the Arcade site, at the junction of Hoe Street and High Street, Walthamstow, for information on how you, your family or business can reduce their carbon emissions and to recycle ten of your used plastic bags with us in exchange for a cotton shopping bag.

What previous apprentices have to say

"I've become a lot more confident since being on the scheme, I've learnt a lot of skills in the workplace and I've met lots of new people. As a result, I've gained a new job!"

Lillie from Education Support Services

"I have been on my apprenticeship since April 2009 working at the Waltham Forest Direct call centre and doing a Business and Administration NVQ course. I have found the course very beneficial as I have just been offered a permanent job. Luckily I have almost finished my NVQ which has worked out well. I have gained many skills while in work and would recommend this to anyone."

Javell from Waltham Forest Direct Contact Centre.

The Japanese origami club starts this week

Origami club long way from folding

- Japanese culture for everyone
- New club launches this week

Bring the kids and get folding

When a Leytonstone mum decided to advertise to see if there were other Japanese families in the area, interested in running a club to promote Japanese culture, she didn't expect to end up with 50 kids running round her house.

Due to that early success, the club is now moving to the Welcome Centre next to St Mary's Church in Walthamstow Village and opening its doors this month to all comers, whatever nationality.

"I didn't see many Japanese people here before," says co-organiser, Keiko Dickinson. "We're not teaching the Japanese language – though we could if we are asked. We are setting it up mainly as an origami club for children, as in Japan all children do origami from a young age. I think it may actually have started in China but certainly when I was a child we all did it. We want to promote Japanese culture and people here seem genuinely interested. I've been asked to do demos at local schools with my friend Yoko as well.

"When you become parents, you start doing origami again for your own children and there are so many things you can make – animals, boxes, anything really. It gets really interesting when you use more than one piece of paper and use different colours."

When she's not running the Origami club, Keiko writes about England and the English for Japanese travel publications. The new club, which starts this Saturday, 13 February, 3-5pm at St Mary's Welcome Centre, 8 Church End, Walthamstow, will no doubt, make for some interesting copy for her readers. Entry is £3.50 per family with refreshments provided.

More info

For more information on the Japanese Origami club, email Keiko at: info@koinoborinokai.com or call 020 8539 5982.

In brief

Bushwood Residents' snowy celebration

Bushwood Area Residents' Association celebrated 30 years with a timely Snow Ball in Leytonstone recently. A party for 100 local families took on a distinctly snowy theme once local children were put in charge with coming up with the ideas themselves. A snow devil and snow princess as well as a hall decorated with twigs, a Yeti and a giant snowman collage, made it clear who was in charge. Committee members Edie and Imogen (both aged 11), and Lucy (aged 8) were only sorry that some of their ideas, such as a snowball machine, a white chocolate fountain and flying glittery angels, weren't possible on the day. Maybe next year.

- For more information on Bushwood ARA go online to: www.bara-leytonstone.org.uk

Snakey Sue's sanctuary

'Snakey Sue' Colman, who appears at schools and events with her pythons and corn snakes, is hoping to start a local reptile sanctuary that will open to the public. "There is nothing remotely similar to what I'm proposing in London," says Sue. "The sanctuary would enable more young people to come along and assist in the care of the animals, as volunteers and on work experience, learning valuable skills such as animal husbandry and to socialise, in fact an 'alternative youth club', encouraging young people off the streets and giving them something interesting and useful to do."

- For more information go online to: www.snakeysue.com or call Sue on 020 8989 2560.

Rationing talk

Another fascinating talk from the Walthamstow Historical Society takes place this Thursday 11 February at 2.30pm in the Main Hall at Greenleaf Road Baptist Church, Greenleaf Road Walthamstow (just off Hoe Street opposite Ye Olde Rose & Crown pub). David Evans delivers a talk called 'Fair Shares For All', looking at wartime and post-war rationing in London. David will show how the system worked and the steps taken by the authorities to make sure the rules were applied. You don't have to be a member to attend, visitors are welcome. The meeting is free to the Society's members but there is a charge of £1.50 for visitors. No booking is required, just pop along.

- For further information call 07792 750017.

FAMILY LITERACY, LANGUAGE AND NUMERACY

These are FREE courses for family members and carers of school age and pre-school/nursery children. You will find out how numeracy and literacy is taught in school. This will help you support your children with their school work. In addition you will be able to brush up your own English and Maths skills. The Family Language courses are for parents and carers with English as an additional language. They cover literacy and numeracy and language used in the classroom and in school. The courses are mainly in schools, pre-schools and nurseries. To find out more about courses run in schools, please contact the Family Literacy, Language and Numeracy coordinator on 020 8521 4311 or e-mail fln@walthamforest.gov.uk

Are you fulfilling your potential?

Personal Best is a training and volunteer programme that could be the first step towards your future.

Unemployed? No qualifications?

Personal Best could be the start to a better future for you.

- Supported training and help with getting a job afterwards
- Complete the course without affecting your benefits
- Build your confidence by learning new skills and meeting new people
- Gain work experience and references through volunteering

Work Based Learning for 16-24 Year Olds

Do you want to earn while you learn?

Are you looking for that next step towards a rewarding career?

Choose the Work Based Learning programme that suits you

Apprenticeships

These courses are designed by national employment organisations for motivated 16 to 18 year olds and adults who want to complete an Apprenticeship whilst gaining work experience in their chosen profession. All courses are full time and comprise work placement and day release. Your achievement will be based on continuous assessment.

You will also be required to sit an initial assessment and attend an interview to demonstrate commitment and ability to complete the programme. Apprenticeships are aimed at 16-18 year olds, but there are a number of places on these courses for 19-24 year olds and apprenticeships for adults.

If you choose to do an Administration Apprenticeship you will need to demonstrate evidence of having GCSE A* to C in English or equivalent.

CLaSS runs Apprenticeships in:

- Administration Apprenticeship NVQ Level 2
- Childcare Apprenticeship NVQ Level 2
- Health and Social Care Apprenticeship NVQ Level 2
- Customer Service Apprenticeship NVQ Level 2

We need your back-up

A big thank-you to the 7,100 people from our community who have signed our petition for more police officers in Waltham Forest. Having so much support made a big difference when the petition was officially presented to the Metropolitan Police Authority meeting at City Hall on January 28.

As a result the Metropolitan Police Authority has promised to investigate crime rates and police resources in our borough.

However we still need more signatures to strengthen our case. If you haven't already signed the petition please do so by completing and returning the form below, or go online to www.walthamforest.gov.uk/backup

Waltham Forest is calling for back-up

I support Waltham Forest's campaign to secure 120 additional police officers to reach a fair level of police resourcing in the borough.

Kelmscott's pupils address the conference

Borough schools lead the way for cohesion

- Teachers from across the country learn from borough's teachers
- Young people present at conference to show what work can be done

Sir Keith Ajegbo praises the scheme

Education workers from across the country descended on Kelmscott School last week to learn first-hand how Waltham Forest promotes community cohesion in schools.

A conference was held to demonstrate the work done through an education programme designed by the Council's schools improvement contractor, VT Group, to tackle difficult subjects such as knife crime and gang violence.

Visitors took part in a number of workshops to learn about local successes such as the Stolen Lives programme, which investigates gang violence. Kelmscott's head boy

Clearly if you do not deal with it in schools, where else do you debate these issues? That is why schools are key.

welcomed the group, saying: "If I wasn't going to this school in this community, I don't think I'd ever have met so many people from so many different backgrounds. That's one of the most important things about Waltham Forest."

Government advisor, Sir Keith Ajegbo – one of the first champions of teaching citizenship – gave the keynote speech, adding: "When you get into these issues (extremism and community cohesion), you can't get away from asking young people to think things through and make decisions. "And how can schools deal with it in a measured way? What is the responsibility for Heads in terms of the concerns they may have regarding views of pupils or parents? Clearly if you do not deal with it in schools, where else do you debate these issues? That is why schools are key."

In brief

Jenny Hammond Gets Set

Jenny Hammond Primary School, Leytonstone, was officially welcomed in to London 2012's Get Set network this month, in recognition of the school's commitment to the Olympic and Paralympic Values.

The Get Set network is an ever-growing pool of schools across the country that are working to involve more young people in the London 2012 Games.

Olympic gold-medallist, Sebastian Coe, said: "When London won the right to host the Games, we made a clear promise to use the power of the 2012 Games to inspire young people and I am proud to welcome Jenny Hammond Primary School in to the Get Set network."

Lammas has ideas for Europe

Students from Lammas School and Sports College, Leyton, held online debates with a school in Hamburg, Germany, last week as part of a project to raise awareness of the European Union.

The Young Ideas for Europe project, led by the Citizenship Foundation, saw both sets of pupils take part in a series of debates where the students took on the roles of different political parties to develop environmental policies for Europe.

Lammas head teacher, Shona Ramsay, said: "It's important for young people to learn how other cultures and communities see the world.

"Through projects like this one, our pupils learn not just about problem-solving, but also how to do it with other partners."

Buxton flying high

Buxton School, formerly Tom Hood, is the eighth most improved school in the capital, it was confirmed recently.

Year 11 pupils at the Leytonstone school (pictured collecting their results) helped the school improve 12 per cent on the previous year's GCSE results.

Buxton's co-head, Candice Dwight, said: "We are absolutely delighted. This improvement is due largely to the commitment and hard work of staff and, of course, our pupils with the support of their parents. "This is part of an ongoing upward trend for our results and we expect this year's results to be part of this positive trend, too."

Discover Your Local Children Centre

Children Centres are a great place for under 5's to learn, play and enjoy. They also offer a wide-range of services and activities to children 0-5 years and their families.

LGBT History Month activities

1-28 February 2010

Lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) History Month takes place every year in February. It celebrates the lives and achievements of the LGBT community.

LGBT History Month is an opportunity for all of us to enjoy and take part in a range of events and activities.

Join us in celebrating diversity in Waltham Forest!

Lesbian Reading Group

Monday 8 February, 7.45–8.45pm

North Chingford Library

The group will be looking at a wide range of related fiction and non-fiction.

For more information, email jacky.logan@walthamforest.gov.uk or call North Chingford Library on 020 8496 1070.

Literature Evening – in celebration of LGBT writers

Wednesday 17 February, 7.30–8.30pm

Walthamstow Library

Come along and share your favourite piece of writing from LGBT authors and poets. The evening will be hosted by Jacky Logan. There will also be an opportunity to share your own creative works.

The event is free and everyone is welcome. Tickets are available from Walthamstow Library or just come along on the night. Tea, coffee and biscuits will be provided.

For more information, please email caroline.rae@walthamforest.gov.uk or call Walthamstow Library on 020 8496 1100.

Waltham Forest LGBT Matters

22 February 2010, 5–7pm

This is the Council's flagship event as part of LGBT history month. We will be launching our groundbreaking research into the needs of our LGBT community and their experiences of our services. This is a very important study for the borough, allowing us to better understand the issues and priorities of local LGBT residents, which will help us deliver better services and improve the quality of life in Waltham Forest for local LGBT residents.

The event will feature guest speaker Angela Mason, a commissioner at the Equality and Human Rights Commission. For more information or if you would like to attend please contact Mark Yeadon on 020 8496 3000 or email mark.yeadon@walthamforest.gov.uk

Author Fiona Shaw, will read from her latest novel 'Tell it to the Bees'

Wednesday 24 February, 7.30–8.30pm

North Chingford Library

A 'Question and Answer' session will follow. Light refreshment will be served.

For more information, please email jacky.logan@walthamforest.gov.uk or ring North Chingford Library on 020 8496 1070.

Hate Crime Awareness and Reporting event

Saturday 27 February, 12–4pm

Walthamstow Town Square

Homophobia or transphobic hate crime is physical abuse, threats, verbal abuse, sexual abuse, graffiti, attacks on property and harassment towards someone who is, or appears to be, lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender.

To promote personal safety and raise awareness on where you can report homophobic or transphobic hate crime, the crime prevention van will be in Walthamstow Town Square on 27 February as part of LGBT History Month.

This is an opportunity for you to speak to the High Street Safer Neighbourhood Team or a specially trained officer about reporting homophobic or transphobic hate crime and also find out more about what the Council is doing as well as what you can do to tackle all forms of hate crime.

For more information please contact Dianne Andrews on 020 8496 3000 or email Dianne.Andrews@walthamforest.gov.uk

LGBT book displays and booklists

Throughout February, book displays and booklists will be on show in the libraries to celebrate LGBT authors and poets.

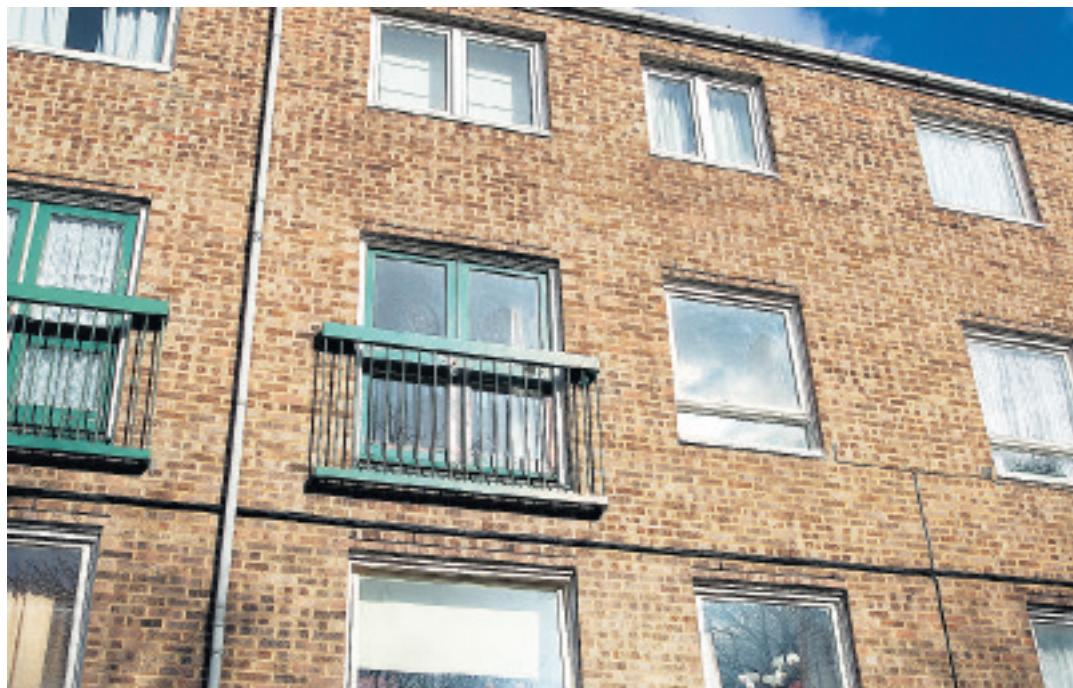

Film displays

Throughout February, Walthamstow Library and Leytonstone Libraries will display films to mark and celebrate LGBT History Month.

Leytonstone Library Tel 020 8496 1190
Walthamstow Library Tel 020 8496 1100

Resident Inspectors will be able to comment on repairs issues

A resident inspector calls

- Ascham Homes tenants earn housing qualification
- Group will work with other tenants to improve housing services

Six Ascham Homes tenants have finished training as volunteer Resident Inspectors and will soon be working alongside the ALMO to help improve the repairs service for tenants.

The four men and two women were whittled down from the 72 applicants who responded to an advert asking people to register their interest in the scheme.

The group took part in a 15-week housing training course, provided by Just Housing. The course is accredited by the Chartered Institute of Housing and is equivalent to a GCSE qualification.

The training has given me a different perspective of being a tenant and shown what I can do to help other people.

The inspectors will look at Ascham Homes' day-to-day repairs service from a resident's perspective and take part in service improvement initiatives.

Waltham Forest News spoke to new inspector Joseph Perera, who lives in Walthamstow. Joseph said: "I was already on the Tenants and Residents Association for my area, and thought it might be a challenge to be a Resident Inspector as well.

"The training has given me a different perspective of being a tenant and shown what I can do to help other people.

"I've made friends through the course and we've all learned to work as a group rather than as individuals. Together we'll be able to help residents understand their rights, and remind Ascham Homes of the duty of care they have to tenants.

"The other day I advised a neighbour about the best way to speak to Ascham Homes about a repair problem, so I'm happy to say I'm putting the training to good use already.

Tips for avoiding Norovirus

An outbreak of Norovirus at Whipps Cross Hospital led to parts of the hospital being closed for several days.

"It's not just hospital staff, patients and visitors who are at risk from the bug," says Cllr Liz Phillips, Cabinet Member for Health, Adult and Older People. "Every year up to 1 million people in the UK suffer from its effects. Noroviruses are part of a group of viruses that are the most common cause of upset stomachs in the UK. But there are some simple steps we can all can take to avoid or lessen the symptoms of Norovirus."

These include thorough hand washing, not preparing food for others when ill, disinfecting contaminated areas if you are ill and keeping well hydrated.

FROM THE GAMES

We are going to maximise all the opportunities being an Olympic host borough brings to Waltham Forest, so that our whole community feels they are Getting more from the Games.

... improving business and skills

Hundreds of residents have already been trained in construction and security skills, helping them find employment on the Olympic Park site and on other major construction projects.

After a £7.6 million investment, thousands more local people will benefit when the borough's National Skills Academy for Construction opens this summer in Leytonstone.

The Council's Worknet partnership continues to support local people, finding them further training and employment opportunities in a time when many residents need it the most.

Later this year, the Council plans to work more closely with all kinds of local organisations who are delivering projects that contribute to the borough's 2012 priorities; building a stronger, more united support for the Games.

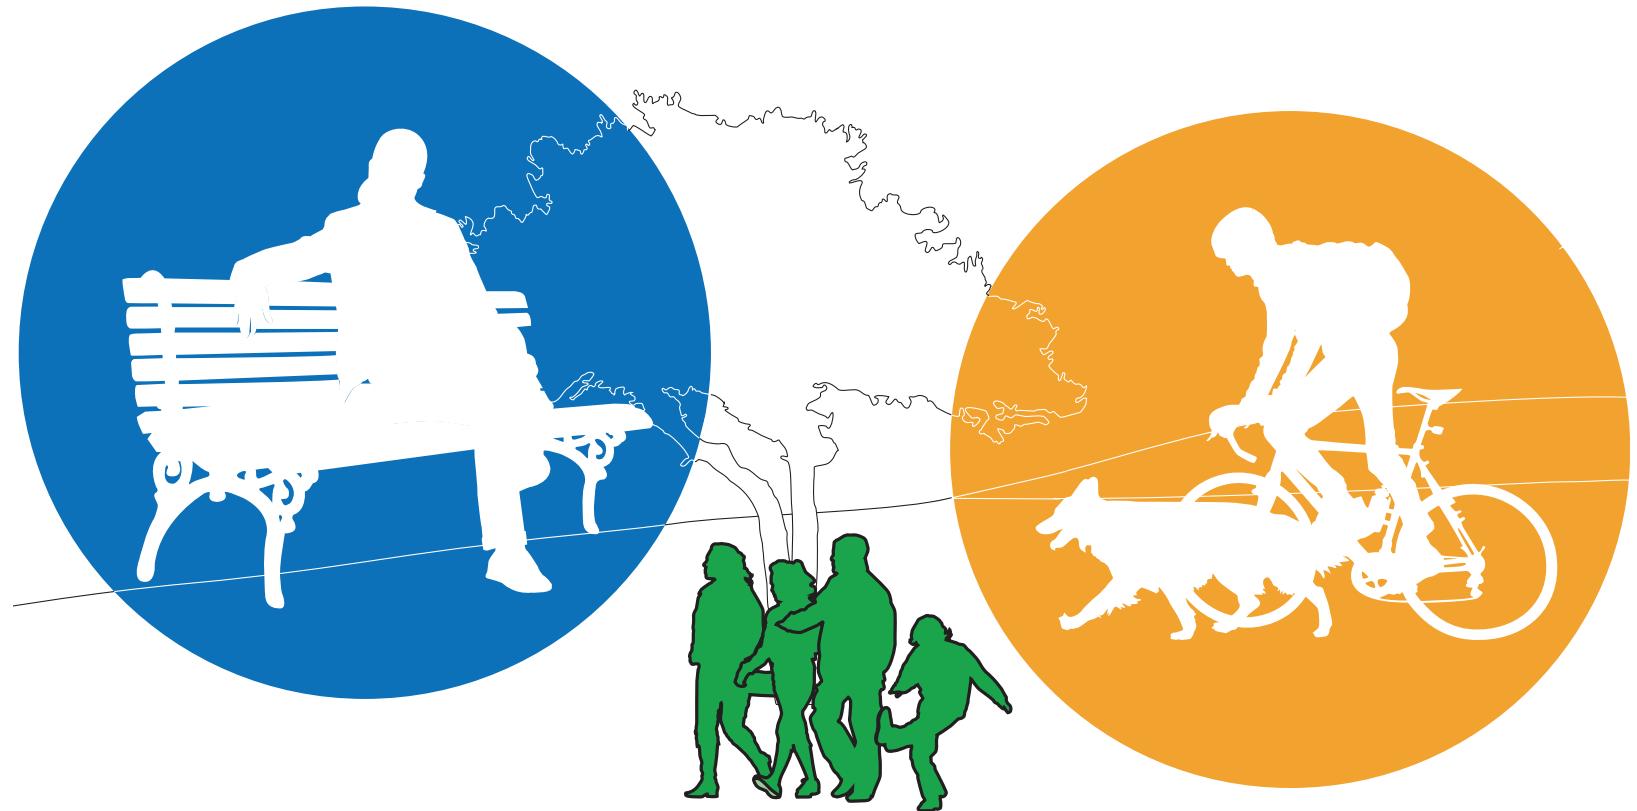

...investing in our streets

One of the biggest benefits of being a host borough is the funding we have secured to invest in our streets. We have so far secured over £8 million and there is more to come.

As the parts of the borough bordering the Olympic Park, Leyton and Leytonstone will see massive improvements to their high streets and roads. From improving road safety around Ruckholt Road through to replacing old paving slabs along Leyton High Road, we are investing millions to make the journey through the area a more pleasant and safe experience for everyone.

We have recently dedicated £400,000 to be spent on giving shops on Leyton High Road a make-over. Shop fronts will be smartened up to look more appealing, attracting more visitors and businesses to the area. Plans are being developed as we speak, so watch this space for more details.

Over the coming years, the Council will invest millions into transforming all of Waltham Forest's town centres into the vibrant, modern places they deserve to be, both for the Games and for generations to come.

... increasing Olympic Park access

Both during and after the Games, we believe our residents deserve access to the very heart of the Olympic Park.

We are working hard to push for improved transport links in Waltham Forest. These include the reopening of the Hall Farm Curve train track, which would link residents in Chingford and Walthamstow directly to Stratford.

We will also continue to call for the vital improvements necessary to Leyton Underground Station, to ensure it is fit for purpose during 2012. Plus, we are developing plans to improve Marsh Lane foot bridge, a key part of the route through the Lee Valley to the Olympic Park.

With over 40,000 Waltham Forest residents living within half a mile of Eton Manor – the part of the Olympic Park within our borough – we believe that a new pedestrian and cycle bridge should be built. This would link our residents directly to the two international standard hockey pitches, ten tennis courts, ten football pitches and the mountain bike trail that will be on Eton Manor after the Games. The bridge is a central part of our plans to ensure everyone in the borough can enjoy the legacy of the Games for generations to come.

...inspiring our community

There are many ways for residents to get involved in the Games; from registering an interest in volunteering at www.london2012.com/volunteering or simply having your say on the Council's improvement plans for the area, you can make a real difference.

As 2012 comes ever closer you will find the Council out in your area more often, encouraging everyone to get involved.

The Games are a cause for massive celebration and throughout 2010, there will be a whole host of events celebrating the Games coming to our borough.
